

Things that don't belong

Leonard

Leonard Woronowicz, 63, had such a terrible headache that he was forced to go the hospital to check it out. The doctors pulled out a 12 cm long blade from his head. Four days earlier he had fallen from a chair in the kitchen and apparently the knife had hit him in the head. He did not realize what had happened, not even when he couldn't find the blade to the knife. He later left the hospital with no permanent injuries.

Meija

The construction worker Isidro Meija, 39, from California accidentally slipped and shot himself with a nail gun in 2004. Six nails penetrated into his back, neck and head. After the doctors had pulled the nails out he was able to go home again.

Shafique

Shafique El-Fahkri, 19, got a chair leg straight through his eye during a bar fight last year. He recovered 95 % of his eyesight.

Patrick

Without noticing it Patrick Lawler shot himself with a nail gun in the head. After six days with a horrible pain in his teeth he went to the doctor. They discovered the nail and removed it by surgery. Patrick recovered fully.

Ron

The construction worker Ron Hunt fell from a ladder onto the drill in California 2003. The drill was 46 cm long, 3.75 cm wide and pushed his brain to the side. Except for receiving an artificial eye he recovered fully.

Snake found in Florida. Could you say-
“not very bright snake”?
